MOST VALUABLE PLAYER AWARD

Local Czechs Aid Country

Funds for the Czechoslovakian people will be raised by Milam county Czechs in a home talent play to be presented at National Hall on Thursday night, October 6, it was announced here this morning.

Czech people in Texas have been active during recent days due to the threat of war in Europe in which Czechoslovakia faces invasion over Sudeten territory and are responding liberally with funds being sent over there.

On last week a Czech play was given at Marak and the same play with additional talent will be presented at National Hall on Thursday night, October 6. The public and especially the Czech people are urged to attend this play for the reason that funds are being collected for the Czech people in Europe.

$5,000 Bond Voted To Improve Val Verde School Building

An election held in the Val Verde school district last Saturday resulted in a unanimous vote for the issuance of a $5,000 bond to be used in improving the Val Verde school building under a PWA project.

The order for the $5,000 bond was signed by County Judge, Jeff T Kemp and the county commissioners at a continuance of the regular September term of commissioners' court Wednesday morning.

This is one of several such pro-projects for improvement of schools in Milam county.

$11,659 PWA Grant Accepted For Court House Improvement

Commissioners' court last Monday, October 19, authorized J. E. Johnson, architect, to prepare plans and specifications for improvement of the Milam county court house according to the original PWA submitted application which includes making the building fireproof, new floors, strengthening of the building, etc. The amount of the PWA grant is $11,659 and it has been officially accepted by the county for the improvement of the court house.

$5 Bounty to be Paid by County For Wolves Killed

A group of Milam county citizens appeared before commissioners' court last week filing the complaint that wolves were catching their chickens. As a solution to the problem, the court ordered the county to pay a bounty of $5 per head for each grown wolf killed and $2.50 for each puppy wolf killed. This bounty will be paid up and until January 1, 1939, when it will cease.

"Boy's Town" Tells Strange Story of City Of Little Men

"Boys Town," starring Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney, brings the most colorful, human and exciting of real life stories to the screen, proof again that "truth is sranger than fiction." The picture opens Saturday for two days engagement at the Cameron Theatre.

More than a year ago, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer became interested in Boys Town, the only incorporated village of its kind in the world. This city of little men has a population of 275, of which 200 are boys, and is situated on the main highway west of Omaha, Nebraska. It is twenty-one years old, a dream come true, the dream of one of the greatest and most kindly humanitarians of our time, Father Edward J. Flanagan.

To Boys Town come boys, a never ending parade of boys, who are welcome irrespective of race or creed. Each of then has a problem, each of them a drama. Some were abandoned by their parents, others were ne-

Marble Machines Definitely Bannned

Death knell of marble machines was believed to have been sounded here this week when the commissioners' court voted to refund taxes recently collected by Bill Alex Bonds on each table and device.

Operation of marble machines has been declared to be a violation of the Texas statute and it was believed that unless a change is made in the law they will not be permitted again in Milam county. The tax recently collected resulted when marble machines were placed back in business houses. They were removed shortly before a recent session of the grand jury. So far as known publicly the grand jury took no cognizance of the machines but it is generally accepted that they will not be permitted to operate.

In connection with the resumption on the part of certain business houses in the operation of marble machines the court ruled that since the owners discontinued the operation of marble machines after they were found to be unlawful that the tax collector refund the county part of the occupation tax paid by them on September 15, 1938.

An application from the citizens in the Crush voting precinct to change their box from Precinct 5 to Precinct 6 which includes Sandy Ridge and Buckholts was considered when commissioners' court met on Thursday, September 15, but the question could not be settled and was entered as unfinished business to be brought up when the court meets in October.

Cooking School Stirs Wide Interest

It's the talk of the town!

Women throughout the community are planning to attend the friendly class for home-makers, the Motion Picture Cooking School, scheduled to open at the Cameron Theatre on Wednesday, October 26.

A welcome invitation to the wise is sufficient, and the only ivitation needed for this novel cooking school is that extended to every woman by The Cameron Herarld. There is no charge to see any of the showings of "Star in My Kitchen."

Because this newspaper stands ready to sponsor all progressive developments, particularly when they affect the homes of the community, it is presenting this motion picture romance of home-making entirely free.

"If I could only see exactly how she mixes and handles her pie-crust."

That comment has been heard from beginners and from more experienced cooks at many cooking schools. Craning necks and anxious eyes, trained on the stage from the sides and back of the demonstration hall, have failed to catch all of the important steps in pastry-making and other culinary arts. Only the early birds in the very font row have had a close-up of the stage in the past, and even they couldn't peer directly into the mixing bowl.

Now the wizardry of the camera has solved the problem, making it possible for every person in this section to share each fascinating stage of the planning, measuring, blending, and baking in practical, up-to-the-minute kitchens.

Keeping pace with the baking, roasting and frying, a series of salads and frozen delicacies will parade in and out of the adaptable electric refrigerator, which will reveal its host of possibilities for simplifying labor and marketing, and contributing to good health and good food.

What to do with left-overs? How to take the gloom out of laundry day? How to save time, energy and temper in meal preparation? How to be attractive in spite of the daily rush? How to make the piecrust that men love to eat? How to give first-aid to fallen cakes?

It won't be necessary to ask the questions, for exert home specialists have anticipated these very problems. They know what bothers many an experienced housekeeper, because it

Cameron will figure prominently in a national broadcast on Sept. 30, at 10:15 a. m. over the Columbia net work through Station KTSA.

This broadcast originates with Scattergood Baines and is dedicated to retail store keepers in Cameron. A letter addressed to T. P. Gunnels at Hanover and handed in for publicity by Drayton McLane of the McLane Company tells about this program. The broadcast is sponsored by Wrigley Spearmint Gum and will be of interest to people in this section.

Work Progressing On PWA Projects In Milam County

J. E. Johnson, local architect, has retained offices in the Cameron Hotel and is busily at work with a crew of draftsmen proving plans for a number of PWA projects in Milam County.

He reported on Monday that the Val Verde school district had approved without a dissenting vote a $9,000 project for a new school building.

A committee went with Mr. Johnson on Wednesday to Austin to inspect steel stands on the football field with view of erecting similar stands at Yoemen Field in Cameron, a project for which had already been accepted.

Included in the plans Mr. Johnson is now making are the Sharp school building, the Milano school building and the Milam county court house.

Ad Hall School Patrons Call For PTA Meeting

School patrons of the Ad Hall school will be glad to know that another meeting is to be held on Friday night, September 30, at the school to organize a Parent Teacher's Association.

C. T. Bridewater, principal of the school, said that Mrs. Grady Stidham and Mrs. Bennie Winfield of Cameron will attend the meeting and will address the patrons. He expects a large crowd for this meeting.

Two old citizens of Milam county, one of them, Will Smiley of Baileyville, 77 years old, born in June 1861 and Charles Weise of Port Sullivan, born in March 1860 met in Cameron Saturday.

CAMERON THEATRE GIVES SCHOLARSHIP FOR COLLEGE YEAR

Cameron's first major recognition of her athletes came this week when business spoke out in an unprecedented provision for a capital award of $150 scholarship to any university in Texas.

Stanley H. Swift of Swift Theatres announced the award which will be made by the Cameron theatres and will be paid to the most popular and outstanding football player for 1938.

Interest in this award was heightened by the announcement that the gift would result from a popular vote to be taken at the door of the Cameron Theatre by patrons who patronize the show. A voting booth has been arranged by Mr. Swift and tickets bearing the imprint of his own signature will be distributed to patrons as they enter the Theatre This ticket or ballot provides a space where the name of the football player may be written. It is then deposited in a sealed and locked box to await the final act when the season is over.

Mr. Swift announced the selection of three judges, as follows: Dr. James Watson, John Jeter and Rev. Maurice Grove. These judges will supervise this popular voting award, the result will be announced at a time to be determined late this fall or winter, depending on how far the Yoemen go in bi-district and regional competition.

The award of $150 in cash which is to be appropriated for a scholarship on any university selected by the winner is sufficient in amount to guarantee a boy one year in college. No money is to be paid to the winner but will be deposited with the registrar of the college chosen by the boy. It is a magnificent gesture on the part of Mr. Swift and has found wide popular approval among the citizens. No awards have been made in the past and thus Mr. Swift becomes the first public spirited citizen to signally recognize the fine crop of athletes turned out each year from Yoe High School. Coach L. C. Wood was enthusiastic in his approval of the award as are other officials of the school. The coach feels a scholarship will be an incentive for the boys to show maximum allegiance to their game and to their school.

The tickets are given free to each patron who pays admission to the theatre. The patron writes the name of the player for whom he wishes to vote and drops the ticket in the box. Thousands of these tickets have been printed and will be ready for distribution when the voting begins on Friday.

Yoemen Resume Play Here Friday

The Yoemen will face their second test of the season on Friday night when they face the Calvert team on Yoemen field. The Calvert team will be out-weighted by the Yoemen but come here as a high touted fast aggregation.

On last Friday night Calvert defeated Rosebud with a score of twenty points while the Yoemen were having a hard time defeating Mexico City six to nothing. The Yoemen looked bad at crucial moments of the game, casually flashing a passing attack that revived memories of brighter and better days On the whole the team is not clicking and indications are they will have a hard time getting over the hurdles during the season.

The Yoemen are in need of a spark plug for their offense and much dependence was being placed on Walter Lucas who showed very little ability last season but gives promise of coming through this year as a standout in the below average team.

On October 7, the Yoemen go to Caldwell for their next game.

The First Christmas Present

There was never a happier couple than we were in those days. The mill was running at full capacity, and every department worked under pressure. I had to continue to travel over Kansas and adjoining States, but I begrudged every minute I had to be away from home.

Fall and winter came around in a hurry, and it was Christmas almost before I knew it. I studied long and hard on the Christmas present I would give my bride. She has always been very fond of music. On Christmas Eve I decided at the last minute to give her a real surprise. It was more than I could afford, but I knew it would be the apple of her eye. So I bought the finest phonograph then on the market.

I went to Amerman's Music Shop & Book Store on Main street. He had just gotten in a stock of the new "Million-Dollar Laboratory Model" Edison, the old style that operated with a diamond-pointed needle. It stood about five feet high in a big mahogany case. It cost several hundred dollars. It was the handsomest mahine I had ever seen.

Amerman was a grand scout. I told him I wanted it to be a complete surprise for Merle. He agreed like a true Santa Claus to deliver it late that night, after Merle had gone to bed. He brought down his truck, and we slipped the phonograph into the house without her knowing it.

I got up early on Christmas morning. I slipped into the front room and lit the coal stove. Then I put on a record, Merle's favorite piece, a song that we had both come to know during our courtship. It was "Just A Wearying for You." Then I slipped back in bed and pulled the cover over my head and acted like I was sound asleep. Soon the record could be heard all over the house.

One of Her Happiest Surprises.

It waked my wife, and she sat up, listening in surprise. At first she thought it was somebody singing outside. Then she jumped out of bed and ran into the front room. And there beside the Christmas tree was her beautiful new phonograph. I think it was one of the happiest surprises of her life. She was sure tickled with it.

That old phonograph is out of date now, but we have kept it all these years in our living room. We have not had to have its machinery reworked, and it plays just as well today as when we first got it, and that record, "Just A Wearying for You,' is still the most treasured in our collection of disks.

Music was nothing new in my life. Mother always enjoyed songs of all kinds, and among the first things I remember was hearing her hum and sing songs of long ago. Some time before I had bought her a cabinet model talking machine. I had put it in my car and driven it over to Arlington for a Christmas present to mother.

When our second Christmas rolled around there were three of us. Our first son was almost a Christmas present. He was born on Deceber 4, 1918, and true to our plan we called him Pat. I think my wife humored me by agreeing to this name—not Patrick and no middle name—with the idea that later she would give him a fuller name. But that is all he has ever had. And even he thinks it is enough.

Pat arrived in the midst of the great flu epidemic. Just before he was born I took the dread disease and was bundled off to the hospital, where for a time they thought I could not pull through. It was the second serious illness I had ever had. As a boy back on the ranch I had had typhoid fever. I nearly bled to death at one time as a result of that, from hemorrhage of the gums. Pat's mother had a milder case of the flu about the same time I was in the hospital in Kingman. And on account of her condition it was pretty serious. But we hoth pulled through and the new-born baby escaped the flu.

Every member of our family was born in a different State. I first saw the light of day in Ohio, while my wife was born in Colorado. Pat is the only native Kansan. Our next two children were to be born in Missouri and Louisiana, respeceively.

Moves to Kansas City

I remember how proud we were when we moved into our first home of our own. That was the one we bought from Mrs. Piller. I knew my wife was a good business woman when I married her. She has a good head on her, but it was no mistake when she gave up her career and started making a home for us in Kingman. She is just as good a house keeper as she is a business woman. Gradually we fixed up the place until it was a mighty pretty one. As all young couples have to, we added furniture bit by bit. I remember how her eyes glistened with pleasure when we bought the Queen Anne walnut dining room suit. We already had a fumed oak bed room set and also a mahogany bureau set. We were very fond of gadgets of all kinds and tried to get the latest home machinery. We had an electric washing machine, a rotary sewing machine, a four-burner oil stove, a lawnmower, hose and other garden equipment, a steel refrigerator.

During 1919, at a time when the Independent Milling Company was at the height of its success, we were approached by a newly organized concern in Kanas City to merge our business with theirs. This was the Associated Mill & Elevator Company which had been organized by some moving spirits in the wheat growers' organization of that area. After careful consideration the stockholders of the Independent Milling Company at Kingman decided to accept this offer to purchase our plant, and it was necessary for me to move, at least temporarily, to Kansas City to wind up affairs of the old Independent Mill Company at the headquarters of the newly consolidated company. We regretted moving from Kingman because we had come to know so many pople there so favorably.

I want to jump a little ahead on the story here. I want to show that the feeling of good will was mutual. During the recent campaign my past life and career was attacked by the usual political campaign innuendo. My friends and acquaintances back in Kingman were among the first to refute these baseless charges. In the midst of the campaign they gathered around a microphone in Kingman at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elster M. Hale and a number of spokesmen replied to my opponents.

This program over the air was carried to the people of Texas over the Texas Quality Net work and gave the splendid citizens of Kingman a chance to express their resentment of unfair imputations about their former fellow townsman. The master of ceremonies was my old old friend, Glenn Ferguson, a hardware merchant who "knew me when." These old friends were kind enough to give me generous testimonials. I am going to insert here a part of the many nice things they had to say about me.

What Old Friends Said

I was telling what my old business associates and friends back in Kingman said about me on the radio program during the campaign. The first talker was Glenn Ferguson. He said, in part:

'I have come with leading citizens of Kingman to give the voters of Texas the truth about our former townsman, Wilbert Lee O'Daniel, who is still our friend, even though it has been many years since we played and labored together.

'There are a number of the best citizen of Kingman here eager to testify, as to Wilbert's sterling qualities, but time is short and we are going to have to hear from only a few. The first to speak is Elster M. Haile, a pioneer business man of Kingman, one whom we have had to divide part time with Fort Worth, Texas, because Mr. Haile has extensive interests in Texas as well as here in Kansas. Mr. Haile knew Mr. O'Daniel well when Wilbur liver here Later Mr. Haile and his family moved to Fort Worth and lived there many years. Mr. Haile's children, three of them, attended school in Ft. Worth,and the two sons graduated from Central High School there. Mr. Haile will you come to the microphone—."

Comes From Our Hearts, Says Mr. Haile.

"When I talk to people in Texas, I feel as though I am conversing with home folks," said Mr. Haile. "I am sorry that our peaceful community here in Kansas has been injected into the Texas political campaign, but as opponents of W. Lee O'Daniel have dragged us in, we now feel that we have a right to voice our sentiments. What we have to say here tonight is coming from our hearts. We know the truth and our words are undefiled my money. We are all here with our spontaneous impulse, glad to do our best to see that fairness and truthfulness prevails.

"I have known Wilbert Lee O'Daniel since 1914, both socialy and in a business way. I knew him when he first came to Kingman and watched his activities. He was progressive a hard worker and I never heard a whisper of scandal connected with him. He was a builder and was always found doing things constructive. One of our larger buildings here today was made possible by the farsightedness of Wilbert and some of his fraternal and business associates.

"As I have been O'Daniel's friend and neighbor in both Kingman and Fort Worth, I feel that I would be neglectful of this frinedship if I were to let go unnoticed the unwarranted and false attack that has been made upon his character by a group of Texas ring politicians.

"Wilbert has always been above littleness. He has always preferred to say something good for his fellows, rather than to inspire suspicion or to assail by innuendo. If he has anything to say re will say it directly and not hide behind the screen of innuendo.

Resents Politicians

"We citizens resent the unfair raid the Texas professional politicians have made upon our town. The most of us are peace-loving people and go about attending to our business and would not now be making this broadcast if it were not that a great injustice has been done one of our former townsman. I live here in Kingman, but we own and I now am farming a lot of land in Texas, and as I have always been a Democrat, I can truthfully say that Texas will do itself proud by electing Wilbert Lee O'Daniel as its Governor."

Mr. Ferguson spoke again:

"It is now my pleasure to introduce another worth-while citizen and civic leader of Kingman who seems to be more than anxious to talk to you Texas people. This man, whom I am about to introduce, has also been a resident of Texas. Today he is practicing his profession of dentistry here in Kingman. He, too knew Wilbert O'Daniel when O'Daniel was a struggling young business man of Kingman. Dr. Wilbur Benefiel is here to tell his story—Dr. Benefiel."

Doctor Speaks to Texas Friends.

"I am glad tof the opportunity to extend greetings to the people of Texas," said Dr. Benefiel, "and especially to my old friends in Dallas, For tWorth, Houston and San Antonio, where I worked for several years. My personal greetings to David M. Duller in Houston. I wish I had the time to name a host of you, but I have not. I must take the few minutes alloted to me to extend my greeings and congratulaions to Lee O'Daniel.

"I knew him intimately for many years, and knew him to be a fine type of man, and, I believe, capable in every way of success by serving the people of Texas as Governor. I am pained to learn, however, that he has been accused of the heinous crimes of displaying an American flag at one time, and of allowing his friends to address him by his middle name instead of his first name. He no dobut will have a hard time living that down. Lee, if you are listening in, I want you to know that we are for you, good luck and to Texas."

Mr. Ferguson next said: "Now, folks, we have 'The Law' here with us. He has taken off time to run in here and say a little something for his old friend, W. Lee O'Daniel. Here is W. F. Fisher, former Kingman County Sheriff and now Chief of Police of Kingman. Chief, I want you to come over here and tell the people of Texas what you know about our old friend Wilber. Don't get scared, Chief, this little old bug of a thing won't bite you. If it does, you are loaded and ready for any emergency. You are on the air."

Next Week—What Mr. Cline Said.

FARM CLUB NEWS

Mrs. Beuna Chambers,
Bryant Station Home Dem. Club
Rogers, Texas:

"It takes a water system in a house to make a home," ran the poem read by Miss Dorothy Porter, Home Demonstration Agent, in her discussion of "Water In anl Out of the Kitchen Safely," when the Bryant Station club met in the home of Mrs. L. A. Abel on Thursday September 15th.

To realize the truth of the above lines Miss Porter said try this just once: Pump or draw by hand a bucket of water weighing 29 pounds. Take it into the kitchen, set it down, pick it up again, carry it out side, and pour it out. Do this seven times. This represents the average amount carried in and out daily by the housewife for the kitchen alone, not counting that needed for mopping, bathing, washing, etc., which totals up to about 37 tons in a year.

"Not only is it important to have running water in and out of the house but it must be safe" the Agent further stated with emphasis. The water must come from a source known to be pure and disposed of in a way as not to contract filth and disease. She talked of ways and means, some of which involve little expense. The plans will be explained to anyone who will call at her office.

The hostess assisted by her daughter LaVerne served refreshments of iced beverage and cake to the 10 members present and 6 visitors as follows: Mesdames W. B. Harvey of Rogers, E. G. Colbert of Oenaville, Mrs. Elsie Wagenfehr of Temple, Mrs. Edwin Fisher of Buckholts, Misses Eloise Lively and LaVerne Abel.

Consumer Buyer problems will be the subject for discussion at the next meeting on Thursday, September 29th with Mrs. R. T. Patterson hostess. All members are urged to be present for the election of officers.

Visitors are always welcome.

Miss Vera Avrett,
Gardner Home Dem. Club,
Tanglewood, Texas:

"Typhoid fever is the greatest menace from polluted water," Miss Dorothy Porter affirmed when speaking to the Gardner Home Demonstration Club, September 14th, on the subject of "Water In and Out of the Kitchen Safely."

She explained that rural communities are more susceptible to typhoid epidemics than are towns. Most cases by unclean well water. These polluted wells could be prevented if forethought were used when selecting a well site. Have the drainage from the barn yards and out-houses away from the well. Have wells covered; install a windmill or a suction pump in place of the old rope and bucket. Have a test of the water made by the Public Health Service. If the well is polluted, make a paste of a small amount of water and chlorinated lime (in the proportion of 1 teaspoon lime to 500 gal water) and put in th the well.

A septic tank is the best way of disposing of waste water, but is too expensive for many. Cess pools are dangerous because the water may seep down into some underground water chanel. A frame garden or hot bed takes care of waste water safely and inexpensively. Dig a pit 3x6-18. Fill the bottom with 12 ins. of rock and cover with 6 inches of soil. Let the drainpipe enter at one side. If water is drained on top of the ground, drain upon a slope so that it will dry before going too deep.

Miss Porter also gave much information about size and quality of material for sinks, the best cleaners to use, and demonstrated dish pans, sink strainers, racks, dish towels and cloths of the most convenient size and material. Another point emphasized was the danger incurred in feeding slop to hogs. Slop fed hogs are more liable to Trichinosis. The best word of warning to the producer of pork is "Don't feed it," and to the consumer is "Be sure that pork is well cooked before eating it."

There were 10 members present, and 2 visitors: Mrs. Henry Rouse of Taylor and Mrs. Ira Bounds of Watson Branch. Plans for a cream supper September 24 were made. A short recreational program was enjoyed. Mrs. Yount and Mrs. Hart then served grape punch and layer cake.

The next meeting will be at Pleasant Hill on September 27. The program will be "What's It All About."

Insurance Rates Reduced When Fire Prevention is Taught

Reduction of fire insurance rates in Cameron has resulted from a course in fire prevention being taught in the public schools.

Guy Haynes, principal of Ada Henderson School has received a letter from Marvin Hall, fire insurance commissioner at Austin, in which he says that fire prevention must be taught in second, fourth and fifth grades each week and a theme shall be written by each pupil in seventh, ninth and eleventh grades in high school.

The exact reduction in the fire insurance rate is not given.

Poage Surprised at Ickes Stand on Grant

Waco, Texas, Sept.—Congressman W. R. Poage, who has just returned from a trip to Washington in connection with the application of the Brazos River Conservation and Reclamation District for a PWA loan and grant of $28,000,000 for the construction of flood control and power works on the Rrazos River and its tributaries, expressed surprise Friday at the statement attribued to Secreary of the Inerior Harold L. Ickes in Washington Thursday.

Ickes is reported to have said that he would withhold approval of any allotment for the Brazos project until they clarified their power policy. "We told Ickes," Poage said, "that we would gladly dispose of this power in any way he might suggest in keeping with the announced power policy of the district, which is as follows:

"The primary objective of the Brazos district is flood control. Almost of equal importance is the conservation of water for public uses. Applicable laws prescribe the methods the district must follow in financing its improvements. It is the policy of this district to make power generated by it available to the public without the intervenion of private profit, by sale to municipalities and other public agencies, provided that no contract for the sale of power will be made without prior approval by the Federal Government."

"We thought that Ickes was pleased with our offer. The Brazos River district has gone further than any agency I know of in an effort to make this power policy fit into the policy of the Federal Government. Not only has it committed itself to the above power policy but it has expressly contracted that no power should be sold from the great Possum Kingdom Dam, now under construction, without the prior approval of the Federal Government.

"In its application now pending before the PWA for a loan and grant the district binds itself not to sell any power from any dam without this same prior approval of the Federal Government. It seems to me that the Brazos district has given more far-reaching assurances that the public would really receive a direct benefit from the power generated at its dams than any project of which I know."

Poage said the district was now preparing a complete statement of its power policy for transmission of the Secretary with the hope that it would meet any objection. The Congressman commented on Ickes' suggestion that there would not be enough money to finish the entire Brazos project. He said that, in his opinion, Texas was not getting her full share of PWA funds and that if she did there would be plenty of money for the entire project. He emphasized the fact, however, that the Brazos project is primarily a flood-control project and insisted that if only a part of the application were granted that it must include some substantial flood-control provisions.

"We are having to build twice as many dams as we need for flood protection because we have to have the power to pay for the flood control," Poage said "If we only get part of our dams we must keep a part of each dam empty until we get adequate flood control farther down the river."

"Last Stand" Thrill Packed Story Comes To Milam Friday

Bringing a refreshingly new note of melody and romance which serves to enhance the spectacular scenes of the old West, "The Last Stand," Universal's new Trem Carr production, opens at the Milam Theatre Friday for a 2 day run.

It features Bob Baker, who has jumped to fame as a silver voiced cowboy crooner; the lovely Constance Moore, his leading lady; Fuzzy Knight in another of his whimsical characterizations and Earl Hodgins, as the villain who was born so mean that he was weaned on the front sights of a six shooter.

The story is another rip roaring tale of stockmen and cowboys who are forced to fight for their existence against a horde of rustlers and out laws in the terrian adjacent to the Mexican borderland.

"The Last Stand," while replete with action and comedy interludes presents Bob Baker in three new songs which were specially written for him by Atze Taconis and Homer Gaynes. The principal one is "Adios, Old Kid From Laredo," but the two others are not less catchy and tuneful. They are "Let Me Ride Once More" and "The Lost Dogie." They are enhanced by the fact that Baker accompanies himself on his guitar while singing them.

One of the most spectacular scenes in "The Last Stand" is the great cattle stampede, when the outlaws drive the heard through the cowboys who are determined to wipe them out. Another is the scene in the hidden valley, when Mexican rurals swarm down the steep hillsides

THINK IT OVER!

Surely the threatened peace of the world, with the danger of war in Europe looming on the horizon, should cause everyone to exmaine earnestly the status of their personal Christianity. If Christian principles are practiced, then LOVE will regulate the affairs of nations as of individuals, and war would be banished. Meekness, gentleness, a forgiving spirit, unselfishness, helpfulness—these are truly Christlike and Christian. If they are realities, and only then, will the world have PEACE. May YOU and I help make them REAL, ACTUAL, EFFECTIVE in our Personal Life and in our National Life—unto God's glory and unto the welfare of Humanity.

County Health Nurse Submits Report

The health of a community is no better than the health of the individuals in that community; likewise individuals are dependent to some extent upon the community for the condition of their health, thus the importance of a good health department in eauh county is emphasized.

The public health nurse is an asset to any community health program for through her, individuals are taught health and hygiene, the importance of serums to control epidemics, and are educated to better general living conditions.

The public helath program is comparatively new in Milam county but a great deal has been accomplished through the efforts of Miss Pearl Fulcrod, county health nurse.

Miss Fulcrod submits the following report which runs from Febuary to July, but which shows only a small per cent of the work accomplished:

204 smallpox, 5 diphtheria and 209 typhoid fever imunizations, 45 field nursing visits and 5 admissions to Sanatoria for tuberculosis control, 77 visits to prenatal patients, and 56 visits to post natal cases.

Initial meeting of the Cameron History club was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ray Law at 3:30 o'clock. The President, Mrs. Stanley Swift, presided over a business meeting. Woodruff. Next meeting will be October 11th at the home of Mrs. Joe Denson. Closing the meeting the hostess served a lovely salad plate with orange drink. Scotland Yard and Fling of Rooney and Bartholemew Film

From across the Atlantic, Scotland Yard has stretched a helping hand to an Aemrican motion picture production in the interests of screen authenticity.

It occurred when a bulky envelope covered with British stamps arrived at the offices of Sam Wood, Hollywood screen director. It contained official reports of several cases handled by the British criminal investigation bureau.

The cases recorded on the forms were not used in pictures. The forms themselves and the manner in which the case information is reported were the important factors.

They were used to reproduce Scotland Yard reports for "Lord Jeff," dramatic story of training English boys for the sea at the Barnardo Homes in England, which opens today at the Cameron Theatre. In the story Freddie Bartholomew gets in trouble with the police as an innocent pawn of crooks and finds his regeneration and future career through the famous British institution which yearly trains hundreds of boys to follow useful callings.

American printers printed the blanks in the exact form of the Scotland Yard paper and an English typewriter was used to fill out the reports to give the public its first glimpse of a real Scotland Yard case history. This is but one detail of the painstaking research that went into the picture.

Bartholomew and Mickey Rooney play the two principal parts in the story which deals with a boy passed off as a bogus nobleman by the crooks who adopted him as an orphan, his detection, and the work of the Homes in restoring him to useful citizenship.

No. 1 TAXPAYERS

● The No. 1 taxpayers to the state of Texas are the oil industry and its customers. One dollar of every $2.00 of taxes in the state is paid by oil; during 1937, the total of gasoline taxes alone was nearly $48,000,000. This sum is the aggregate of taxes you and other motorists pay every time you buy gasoline; if you're an average motorist the tax on you, personally, is about $35.00 per year.

Originally devised to enable those who use the highways to pay for their construction, gasoline taxes proved to be such an easy and prolific source of governmental income that they have been diverted in many states to uses far removed from highway building; in Texas, 50% of the gasoline tax is allocated to highways; 25% to schools; 25% to the retirement of county road bonds. All of the 1¢ per gallon Federal tax (a total of nearly $12,000,000 was paid by Texans in 1937) is used for the general expenses of the central government.

Since 1920, the cost of a gallon of gasoline has decreased approximately 50%. This has been made possible by technical advances in producing, refining and transporting oil which increased quality and lowered prices. The net saving to the motorist, however, has been all but washed away in the rising flood of taxes.

When you buy gasoline, remember that the gasoline is cheap—only the tax is high!

GIRL SCOUTS ARE ORGANIZED HERE

A troop of Girl Scouts has been organized in Cameron with Mrs. T. R. Vaughan as leader. The first meeting was held on Saturday Sept. 24th.

The scout troop is being sponsored by the Parent Teacher's Association and other organizations have been asked to participate in the responsibility for the success of this troop. Several years ago Cameron had a Girl Scout organization and as a result of the work done there is a partially completed Girl Scout cabin in Wilson Ledbetter Park.

In the same park a cabin was completed for the Boy Scouts. It was said that the Girl Scouts' cabin may not be completed at this time.

At the meeting on Saturday, there were ten present. Mrs. J. P. Love met with the scouts and tenderfoot work, a portion of the book was reviewed. Mrs. Vaughan said that a small house located near the property of Mrs. Lottie Bigbee would be placed in order for the girls.

Mrs. A. E. Kruse was leader of the Girl Scout movement several years ago and has pledged her co-operation with the re-organization.

"The Buccaneer" is Sunday and Monday Bill at Milam

A crucial but little-known chapter by Cecil B. DeMille in "The Bucca- by Cecil B. DeMillie in "The Buccaneer," opening Sunday at the Milam Theatre. It is the story of a famous pirate king who was so notorious that the government put a price on his head, but who became one of the nation's outstanding heroes when he came to America's resuce in her darkest hour and helped Jackson turn the British away from the gates of New Orleans.

Fredric March is seen in the role of the pirate chief, Jean Lafitte, one of the most colorful characters who ever walked across the pages of American history. Lafitte was born in Bordeaux, France, at some unknown date before the French Revolution. His birthday has never been established, although the late Huey Long of Louisiana declared one for him and made it a state holiday.

After serving for a time in Napoleon's armies, Lafitte moved to the New World to try his fortune. Gathering about him a band of ferocious outlaws from every corner of the world, he set up a pirate kingdom on the shores of the Gulf of Mexico not far from the thriving city of New Orleans. From his port of "Barataria" he carried on piracy in a gentlemanly manner, preying mostly uponSpanish vessels and established a set rule that American ships go unmolested at all times.

Although the customs officials of the United States, irked by the super bargains he offered New Orleans shoppers, put a price on his head, Fafitte, as can be so clearly seen in "The Buccaneer," always maintained a deep affection for this, his adopted country.

In the closing year of the War of 1812, the prospects of the United States in its struggle with England looked black as pitch. Washington was burned, Napoleon defeated, New England about to withdraw from the Union. Although the British made Lafitte an attractice offer for his services, the pirate, obeying his loyalties, went to General Jackson and placed himself and his resources at the disposal of the American army. He helped Jackson win the great Battle of New Orleans, and thus remove forever the spectre of a British capture of the American West.

Short CHATS With ADELE MIREE

TRIBUTE TO A FRIEND

I met her through publication of an article in a syndicated column of a daily newspaper. The article was so appealingly sincere and set forth principals of living in such a clear and happy manner that I could not resist writing and thanking her for the words. In that article she stressed the joys of the simple life. There was one sentence something like this "I have seen so much condescending pity shown the poor during the last few years that I would like to say, "It is fun to be poor." Then followed an explanation that her family had been quite well off before the depression which left them much in the same condition that it did many others; how she had to give up her dream of going to college; but most important how she, instead of sitting around and moaning about her lot in life, how she chucked it all and went home to keep house with her mother.

When one had finished the article somehow it left him with faith that things would work out right in simple, honest, every day living. After all it is not the things in themselves that get us down, so much as the way we let those things affect us. She expressed joy in being able to remodel an old dress into something wearable and true as she said, that it was as stylish and attractive as the store bought ones; how she enjoyed refinishing old furniture and lastly she said she was thankful that God had given her the ability to make something out of nothing.

Since that article I have written to her quite frequently and always her letters contain something vitally alive, something encouraging, something that makes one feel she is glad to be alive and doing things. She is always busy and leaves the impression that she is happy in doing the daily tasks that come her way. I am sicnerely glad I can say she is my friend.

a new light on home work

In well equipped homes everywhere the diffused, glare-free light of an I E S study lamp is providing new light on home work, helping youngsters to do their work more easily, and get better grades, too. Lighting tests have shown that many failures were due to poor lighting conditions rather than stupidity.

Poor light, glaring light, both cause eye strain, make one drowsy, increase fatigue. Under these conditions studying is hard work. Give your children the benefit of scientific lighting for their nightly task. Visit the stores of local dealers and see their displays of I E S lamps, in table, floor and wall models ords. One boy was a bank robber at the age of seven, another an inveterate burglar at fifteen; but of the 4300 boys who have passed through Boys Town none has become involved with the police since graduation, while ninety-five per cent are now normal, respectable and responsible young men and citizens of the communities in which they have settled.

"Boys Town"

The fifteen year old incorrigible thief is now 25, happily married and elected and many had criminal recowns a small farm. Mechanically-minded, he has several inventions to his credit. The first was a burglar alarm. One graduate was the youngest attorney ever admitted to the bar in one stae; one became a flyweight boxing champion; one became a pitcher in the big leagues. These boys and hundreds of others, are a tribute to Father Flanagan's firm conviction, which he expresses simply in in these words, "There is no bad boy."

It was from Father Flanagan's files, the records left by his boys, that Director Norman Taurog and Scenarists John Meehan and Dore Schary found the rich material for "Boys Town." The script was ready made. In the history of Boys Town and its boys, they uncovered every element of stirring entertainment, drama and comedy, despair and hope, tragedy and happiness.

Tracy's memorable performance as Father Tim in "San Francisco" made him the perfect choice to portray Father Flanagan thought so, too, and it was Tracy's selection for the role that influenced him to approve the filming of "Boys Town." This gives Tracy a distinction no other star has enjoyed, that of playing a living man as the leading character of a motion picture. In a featured supporting role is Henry Hull as Dave Morris. Hull also is playing a real person, the Jewish merchant who financed Father Flanagan's first venture in founding a home for boys and because his greatest friend. In addition, the picture gives important parts to Leslie Fenton and to Gene Reynolds.

It was Father Flanagan's wish that the film should be the true story of Boys Town. To assure fidelity not only to the story but to the back ground, a motion picture company, numbering 61, was sent to Boys Town. For three weeks, Tracy, Rooney and Hull remained at Boys Town, filming exterior scenes and absorbing the spirit and atmosphere of the city of little men.

Cooking School

is their job to know and to counsel helpfully.

Fun, novelty and entertainment are joined through the feature picture, for it is always fair weather when neighborly cooks get together. Home-making has a universal appeal, and every woman is eager to learn the newest news of her craft.

Cooking, romance, modern kitchens, and clever actors and actresses do not tell the complete story of this 1938-model cooking school. The picture is a whole laboratory of modern ideas and wise counsel, touching on latest developments in home equipment and accessories, including laundry methods, ways to prepare left-overs, beauty secrets, hints on saving time and labor, and fresh suggestions on how to entertain graciously, as well as how to be thrifty.

It won't be necessary to carry pad and encil and try to scribble measurement in the darkened theatre, because free receipe sheets, with complete formulas for many of the delicious dishes prepared in this Motion Picture Cooking School will be distributed daily.

Surprises in store for readers of the Herald will not be limited to free enertainment and instruction, since there will be daily gifts, many of which will bring pleasure and renewed appreciation of "school days" long after the final graduation of the closing day.

Participating firms and local merchants are co-operating with the Herald.

Melvyn Douglas In "Fast Company" at Cameron Saturday

Melvyn Douglas credits David Belasco with his present success and happiness.

"Because of him I now have the sweetest girl in the world for a wife and a long-term contract to act in motion pictures," he explained to Florence Rice between scenes of "Fast Company," which opens at the Cameron for a one day engagement Saturday.

"When I first met Belasco I had just finished playing a small role in 'The Comeback' on Broadway. Belasco saw it and liked my performance. He came backstage, introduced himself and offered me a leading part in his last play, "Tonight or Never.' He must have thought me awfully green or stupid, for the offer took me so by surprise I barely managed to stutter my acceptance.

"Rehearsals began a month later and I met Helen Gahagan, who was the star. I think it was love at first sight, for then and there I knew she was the girl for me. It was, however, more than a year before I was able to convince her. She didn't say 'yes' until April 5, 1931, and then only because it was my birthday, she now laughingly tells me."

Aside from making it possible for Douglas to meet his future wife, Belasco also brought him to the attention of Hollywood producers who rushed him to the movie city to play the leading role in the screen version of "Tonight or Never" opposite Gloria Swanson.

Douglas "clicked" and film fame was only a question of time. In his case the time was nine months, during which he was featured in "Prestige," "The Wiser Sex" and "The Broken Wing."

Then he temporarily deserted pictures for a year to take his wife on their belated honeymoon—a trip around the world. Three years later came another bundle of happiness, their son, Peter Gahagan Douglas.

"And just to think,' Douglas said as Director Edward Buzzell called him for the next scene, "if Belasco hadn't given me that break I might not have any of these treasures I now have and value so highly."
